About the Workshop

LAW SEMINARS INTERNATIONAL

Advanced Workshops

offer busy practitioners intensive up-to-date information in a one-day program.

www.lawseminars.com

The recent established Puget Sound Partnership is working to protect and restore the Sound, while local governments are updating their shoreline master programs under new Department of Ecology guidelines. The regulatory climate is complex, with many local, state and federal requirements, and there are more changes on the horizon.

Attend this workshop to learn from leading experts about the ongoing implementation of Shoreline Guidelines, the ins and outs of obtaining Army Corps permits and complying with the Endangered Species Act, current issues concerning the Hydraulic Project Approval process, and more.

Don't miss this unique opportunity to help you successfully navigate the local, state and federal shoreline permit processes.

~ Program Co-Chairs: Thomas R. Bjorgen, Esq. and Stephen H. Roos, Esq.

Thomas R. Bjorgen, Program Co-Chair, is a partner with Bjorgen Bauer, PLLC, specializing in land use and municipal law. He is past Chair of the Environmental and LUL Section of the Washington State Bar Association.

Stephen H. Roos, Program Co-Chair, is a partner with Hillis Clark Martin & Peterson, P.S. focusing on land use and real estate, including mining permits, shoreline permits, building permits, hydraulic project approvals, and aquatic lands leases. He is named a "Rising Star" by Washington Law & Politics, 2006 and 2007.

Richard Doenges is the Aquatics Resources Division Manager with the Washington State Department of Natural Resources. Previously he directed farmland preservation programs for Skagit and Lancaster (Pennsylvania) Counties. His work managing natural resources projects and programs has taken him from Sri Lanka to Ethiopia to LaConner.

Laura B. Fandino, Ph.D., with Marten Law Group, focuses on environmental and natural resource litigation. She has a doctorate in Marine Biology and is experienced in water quality and ocean and coastal resource issues. Previously she was Legal/Policy Advisor for California Coastal Conservancy and pro bono services provider for the University of Washington Environmental Law Clinic.

Margaret Glowacki is Senior Land Use Planner and Fisheries Biologist with the City of Seattle's Department of Planning and Development. She leads the City of Seattle's update of their Shoreline Master Program. Previously she reviewed project proposals for compliance with environmental regulations including the Shoreline Master Program, SEPA and the Environmental Critical Areas code.

Jim Holmes, planner with the City of Seattle, Department of Planning and Development, has been closely involved in the preparation of the City's "Shoreline Alternative Mitigation Plan".

David Koenig is the Manager of Long Range Planning and Community Development with the City of Everett, Planning and Community Development Department.

Sandra Lange is the Environmental Planner in the Shorelands and Environmental Assistance Program at the Washington Department of Ecology. She provides planning, technical and scientific assistance, legislation and policy interpretation and application, and grant management for the Department's Shoreline Management Act jurisdiction.

Eric S. Laschever, a principal with Stoel Rives LLP in land use, environmental and hazardous waste law, focuses on helping private and public clients secure the federal, state and local land use and environmental permits and approvals needed to implement large infrastructure and energy projects.

Charles E. Maduell, of counsel with Davis Wright Tremaine LLP, focuses on land use and environmental law and litigation. Previously he was Head of the Land Use and Environmental Law Section of the King County Prosecutor's Office.

Kathryn McLeod is Senior Counsel with the Fish, Wildlife and Parks Division of the Washington State Office of the Attorney General. She is experienced in Hydraulic Project Approval permits, fish habitat mitigation, fish and wildlife enforcement and legislation.

Kathleen D. Mix is a Board Member on the Pollution Control Hearings Board, Shorelines Hearings Board and Environmental and Land Use Hearings Board with the Environmental Hearings Office. Previously she was Chief Deputy Attorney General for Attorney General Chris Gregoire.

Harry Reinert, Special Projects Manager of the King County Department of Development and Environmental Services, works on ESA, environmental and legislative issues.

Ron Shultz, acting Executive Director of the Puget Sound Partnership, was a natural resources policy advisor to Governor Gary Locke, covering issues including land use, shorelines and environmental permitting.
