All the Washington state liquor initiatives which created so much excitement failed. However, we continue to see an evolution in the wine industry laws. Indeed, there has been so much change over the last several years that a focus for this year's conference is a review of the changes and how these changes provide new opportunities for the wine industry today. This year's conference offers the ins-and-outs of operating wineries in the current regulatory environment, including an overview of the changes made in Washington state legislation and regulations in wine law and financing over the last several years. There will also be a window on new insights gaining traction as a result of these changes and how they may impact issues in marketing and distribution.

Attendees will gain practical information on limiting costs and legal risks such as those arising through employment and immigration law issues, while also exploring better ways to exploit the revenue generating opportunities the industry has as Washington wines become increasingly recognized both nationally and internationally.

Experts from a variety of perspectives and disciplines share their experiences, challenges and success stories regarding this evolving landscape, bringing value both to those of long experience and those who are new to the world of wine.

~ Program Co-Chairs: Vincent E. Bryan, III, Esq. and Michael T. Reynvaan, Esq.

Vincent E. Bryan, III, Program Co-Chair, is CEO and General Counsel of Montage Management LLC, parent company of Cave B Estate Winery and Cave B Inn at SageCliffe, among others. He has worked extensively on Liquor Control Board Tied House issues during the development of the SageCliffe resort properties. Previously, he was Senior and Associate General Counsel at Adobe Systems.

Michael T. Reynvaan, Program Co-Chair, partner at Perkins Coie LLP, focuses on labor and employment law and the wine industry. He heads the firm's Wine Industry Practice Group and was named one of "Washington's Super Lawyers" and in The Best Lawyers in America. His family started a small new winery, Reynvaan Family Vineyards in Walla Walla, and released their first vintage, the 2007s, in November of 2009.

Thomas E. Henick-Kling, Ph.D., Special Opening Address, is Director of the Viticulture & Enology Program at Washington State University Tri-Cities. His research has focused on the ecology and physiology of yeast and bacteria in must and wine and their impact on the wine flavor profile, including the development of bacteria starter cultures for malolactic fermentation, studies on the interaction of yeast and bacteria, physiology and genetic characterization of Brettanomyces yeast, and evaluation of the impact of grape varieties, grape growing and wine making practices on wine flavor." From 1987 to 2007, he was leader of the Cornell Enology Group; from 2007 to 2009 he was Director of the National Wine and Grape Industry Centre at Charles Sturt University, Wagga Wagga, Australia.

Rick Garza, Deputy Director of the Washington State Liquor Control Board, leads the agency's Director's office responsible for policy, legislation and media relations. He also is the agency's legislative and tribal liaison.

G. Scott Greenburg, partner at K&L Gates LLP, focuses on venture capital, public offerings, intellectual property and technology issues, mergers and acquisitions, complex commercial transactions and international product distribution. He is listed in Lawdragon, Best Lawyers and Chambers USA.

Jean M. Leonard is an attorney and Executive Director of the Washington Wine Institute, the advocacy organization that focuses on state legislative and regulatory issues affecting the Washington wine industry.

Simon Siegl, Principal at CoEfficient Consulting, focuses on strategic initiatives and exit planning for wineries and businesses related to the wine industry. Previously, he held leadership positions at Washington Wine Institute, the Washington Wine Commission and WineAmerica.

Kate Spelman, member of Cobalt LLP, is experienced in copyright, media, licensing and trademark issues. She advises on the development, production, sale and defense of non-patent IP and is listed in The Best Lawyers in America.

Maureen Swaney, Owner/President of the Winery Compliance Northwest, Inc., stays up-to-date on legislative actions and current laws in Washington and other states for compliance information in order to navigate federal, in-state and out-of-state regulations.
